Daniel Barreto Biography

A painting in his family home was the catalyst that led Daniel Barreto to pursue the career in art he has today, working with digital installation, animation, and illustration. Born in Guadalajara, Mexico in 1991, art was never far from Daniel's world — both his mother and grandfather painted often, helping to instill within him a fascination for the powerful ability of art to influence our thoughts and emotions.

Daniel received his BFA from the School of the Museum of Fine Arts/TUFTS in Boston but his path to arrive at this achievement was winding. He found himself doubting his pursuit of the artist's life, a life he knew would contain instability and uncertainty. Yet, he persevered, considering the challenge that makes an art career unique from the well-defined path of a doctor or lawyer part of the reward.

Today that perseverance has paid off, as Daniel has directed several animation videos for musicians as well as working with brands on murals, commissions, and brand identity. His work is notable for its dreamlike quality, a characteristic inspired by his experience with lucid dreaming as facilitated by the book The Yoga of Dreams. Nature is a recurring theme throughout his art; he employs light and plants to encourage contemplation and peace.

Daniel's art has been exhibited in various countries around the world, from the Whitechapel Gallery in London to the Saint Cloche Gallery in Australia. He's been awarded multiple times, including receiving the Eugene C. Ward Memorial Scholarship Award and winning Best Animation Video in the Art Film Festival in Asolo, Italy.

Today Daniel works from his studio in Guadalajara, to create art that will evoke the same kind of awe and thoughtfulness in others that the painting in his childhood home once evoked in him.
